

Free Webinar Russell Graves “COMPOSITION CASE STUDIES”

Presented by the
Delaware Photographic Society

April 28, 2025 - 7:00 pm

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

In his presentation, Russell Graves will concentrate on Case Studies from Nature Photography. We'll explore the compositional elements of photographs of nature. You will definitely learn tips that will help improve your photography skills.

In the media, Russell's been called a rural renaissance man, recognized as one of the top photographers in Texas, and praised by editors, art directors, and audiences alike for his ability to connect people and places through his written, spoken, and photographic stories. He's had nearly a million words published, authored six books, has had thousands of images grace the pages of magazines and advertisements all over the world (including hundreds of magazine covers), is an in-demand speaker, has photographed some of the most prominent people in our country, and is the owner of two businesses. Still, he insists that his most significant accomplishments fall under the heading of father, husband, brother, son, and friend. When he's not in the field teaching or doing projects for one of his clients, Russell is found on his beloved Hackberry Farm driving his tractor and doing tasks that benefit the land and her denizens therein.
